
Everybody's Wearing
SKIMS

About SKIMS

- SKIMS is an American shapewear brand cofounded by Kim Kardashian and Emma & Jens Grede in 2019
- Achieved $1 billion in net sales in just 5 years since it's launch
- began with shapewear and has since expanded into underwear, bras, loungewear, swimwear, menswear, and more
- Known for offering products in a broad range of sizes and skin tones

ge St., right
ottage, the oldest
as the English spell it,
can see models of what the architect,

Markerting & Brand Strategy

- Kim Kardashian's Personal Branding:
  - frequent appearance in campaigns adds authenticity and personal investment, strengthening consumer trust

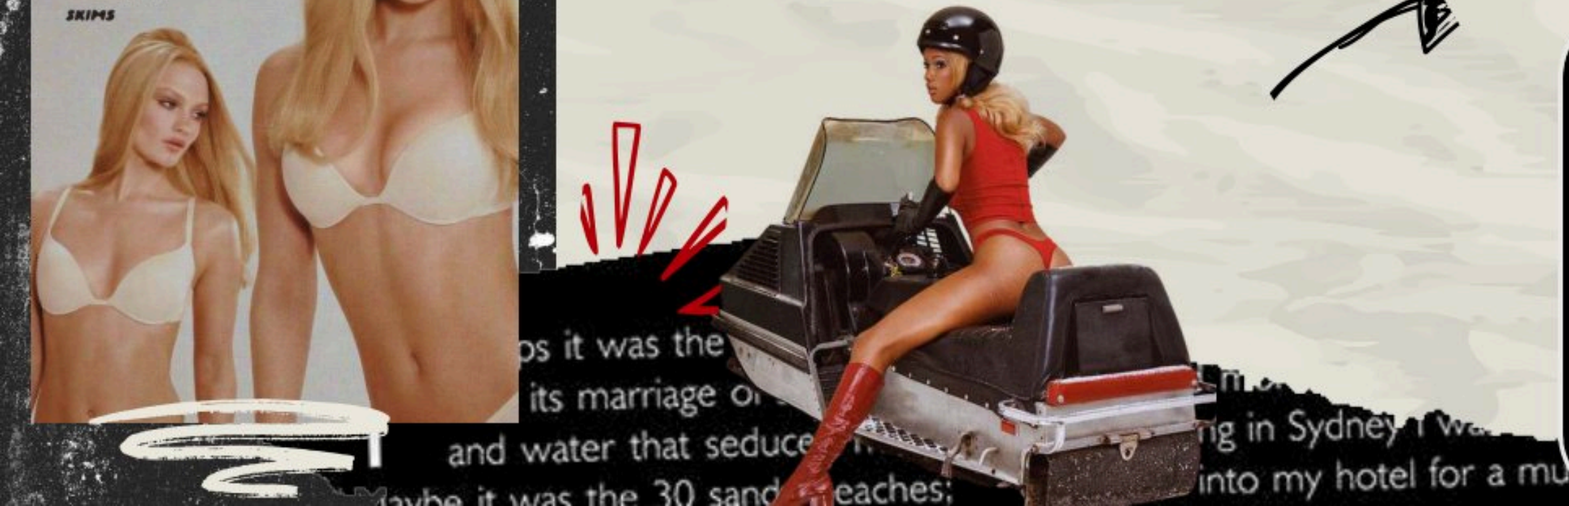

- Celebrity Endorsements:
  - Strategic use of unexpected celebrity collaborations (e.g., SZA, Lana Del Rey, Kate Moss) increases reach across different demographics and amplifies Skims' brand visibility.

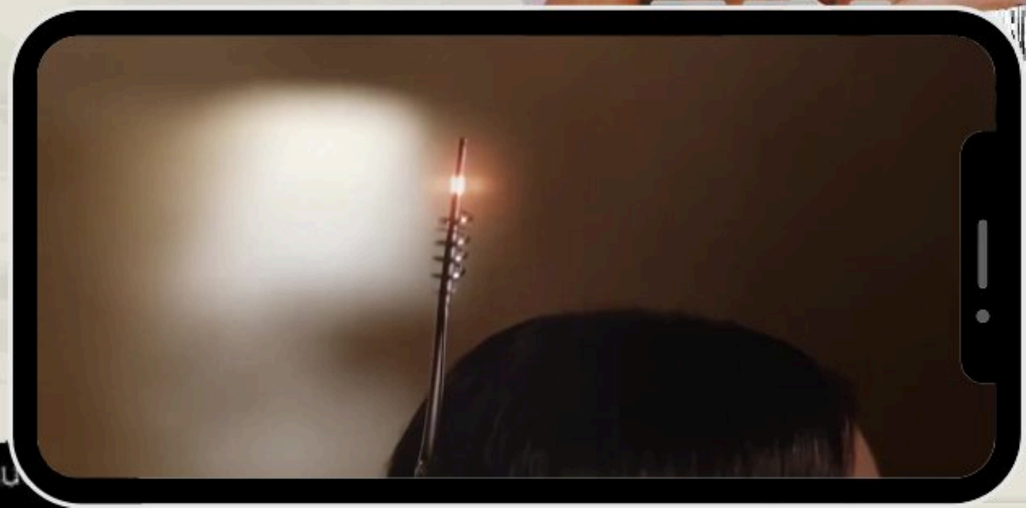

- Viral Momentum:
  - Combining social media influence, celebrity-driven ads, and innovative campaign storytelling creates a powerful formula for viral marketing success.

- Innovative Campaigns:
  - The "Skims Lab" series explores unique, experimental collections, capturing attention with fresh, creative direction and sparking viral interest online.

STRATEGIC ENTREPRENEURSHIP

- Kim Kardashian's Image:
  - Skims capitalizes on Kim Kardashian's global fame and influence to open doors for high-profile collaborations and partnerships
- High-Profile Collaborations:
  - Struck deals with prestigious brands like Fendi, Swarovski, and high-end retailers such as Nordstrom and Saks Fifth Avenue.
  - Partnered with the NBA, WNBA, USA Basketball, and even the Olympics for exclusive product lines, further legitimizing Skims as a luxury lifestyle brand.
- Building a Groundbreaking Reputation:
  - Each partnership boosts Skims' market reach and cements its status as a trendsetter in both the fashion and sports sectors.

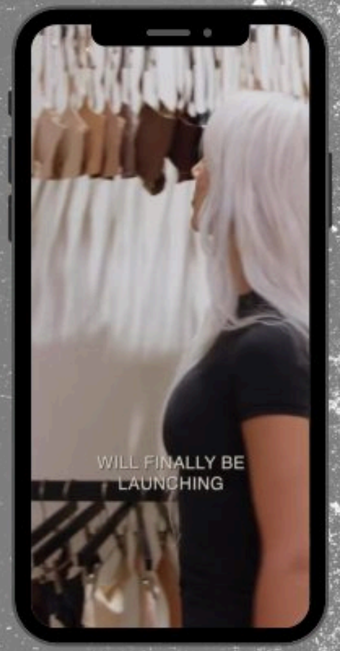

Q&A

- How much of Skims’ success can be attributed to its branding versus its actual products?

- What challenges do you think Skims might face in its retail expansion strategy?

THANK YOU!!! are to Sydney what taxis are to most cities - but a lot more fun. The ferry Lights twinkled on the calm waters of Sydney Harbour as